WICK PARENTS WHO CARE

WPWC in the Morning

October was our first Wick Parents Who Cares, WPWC, meeting and we had five new parents join us that evening.

In order to increase accessibility for parents who work evening hours, it was decided to hold an additional meeting in the morning. The morning session for WPWC will assume the function of event coordination. This decision was made so that we have consistency in each meeting and avoid two separate decision making bodies. The duties and responsibilities of WPWC are plentiful and our hope is that the workload can be divided amongst the evening and the morning groups. This is a new concept for Wick, and its success depends on participation.

November 18th at 10AM will be our first morning session. Expect to meet a maximum of 1-1/2 hours. There were several parents who expressed interest in the morning meeting, so I hope to see you there!
